HISTORY

As craft beer has emerged and grown, so has IPA! IPA has helped grow Craft Beer to what it is currently today. There are now many shapes and forms of IPA, but they all share bright aromatic hop aroma of citrus, tropical fruit, and pine.

To celebrate the grand opening of our second tasting room in Milwaukie, Oregon, pFriem Family Brewers joined forces with friends at Von Ebert Brewing for a collaborative West Coast IPA. This concept for this WCIPA was to challenge us in creating a beer that mimicked the flavors of hops that derive from New Zealand while only using hops that have been cultivated in America. Expect a super expressive and tropical drinking experience that finishes dry and crushable.

TASTING NOTES

This beer pours brilliantly straw in color with a pillowy white foam. Bursting with tropical aromas of juicy peach, tangy passionfruit, and slightly tart guava, alongside hints of mango and pineapple. The flavor profile follows suit, delivering a wave of vibrant fruitiness that finishes incredibly dry and effervescent. The crisp, clean finish leaves the palate refreshed and craving another sip. This is a highly sessionable beer with a light body and lively carbonation, perfect for enjoying on a warm day.
